

The Skin Cancer Foundation and Refinery29 are teaming up to save lives.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulates products that emit radiation, including tanning beds, which use mostly ultraviolet A (UVA) light to develop a tan.

Millions of people in the U.S. use cancer - causing tanning beds, including thousands of teens.

Sign the petition telling the FDA to ban teen tanning.

SkinCancer.org/petition

The Skin Cancer Foundation and Refinery29 won't be satisfied until the FDA completely bans tanning beds in the U.S. Still, enacting this rule would be an important step forward in the fight against skin cancer.